WHO HE IS

Dr. Abdussalam Salmani is an educator who became a psychologist, and a psychologist who never stopped teaching. Over thirty years in higher secondary education he worked with the age group where identity, ambition and self-doubt are all forming at once — and that experience became the foundation of everything that followed. A doctorate in psychology and fifteen years of practice as a consultant psychologist turned classroom instinct into clinical method. Today he moves between the school, the counselling room and the training stage — carrying the same conviction into each: people change when they are understood, not instructed.
